Evidence-Based Acquisition of Books on Project MUSE provides libraries with an option to open up discovery and access for significant numbers of high quality scholarly books, allowing faculty and students to find and make use of the most relevant content for their research and teaching. The user experience is as if the institution already owns the book, with unlimited simultaneous usage, downloading and printing of DRM-free PDF chapters. The library can track which books are receiving the most use through standardized usage reports, and select for permanent acquisition those titles best suited for its collections. The access available via an EBA program also allows library subject selectors to more thoroughly review book selections recommended by faculty or approval profiles before making purchase decisions.

EBA programs may be tailored to meet specific library monograph collection development needs and budgets, through limiting the access pool by subject, publication year, publisher, or price. Some libraries may wish to supplement their purchases of MUSE Book Collections in core subject areas with an EBA program to identify desirable books outside of the core collection scope.

Content Available: All books made available by the publisher for single title sale on the MUSE platform may also be included in an Evidence-Based Acquisition (EBA) program. Publishers opt their titles in for single title sales on MUSE and may change this option at any time; approximately 70% of all books on the MUSE platform are available for single title sale. Over 34,400 titles are eligible for EBA as of January 2018.

Program Outline:

- Project MUSE and Customer agree on EBA program parameters (Library budget commitment, Length of term, Content filters if desired, Price multiplier if applicable for consortia or library system)
- EBA agreement is signed and MUSE bills customer for entirety of budget commitment
- Access to content is enabled, and customer is provided with link to management page which includes MARC records/KBART/title list downloads, usage statistics, and title purchasing tools
- Usage statistics (COUNTER-based) form EBA title set provided on monthly basis for customer review and evaluation
- Purchasing tool allows for title selection and billing at any time throughout program period; selected titles billed against funds deposited at beginning of program; price for each title is set by the publisher
- Access disabled at end of program period for all content not purchased and billed; library has 30 days past end of program to make selections to spend out entirety of budget
- Programs may be renewed, with an additional budget commitment, and adjustments to content set as desired
Available Content Snapshot (as of 1.30.2018; approximately 34,400 titles with new content added nearly daily)
